Optimize your fair success with:
Customer appointments, employee training and evaluation of the trade fair appearance

Successful fair appearance: We deliver either raw material to you or the whole package!

Starting Position

- Fairs are often a unique opportunity to generate new contacts.
- Almost all companies book the most important fairs of their industry as exhibitors which can cost a lot of money. It is often difficult to estimate whether that money is well spent.
- In order to actually gain new contacts with the fair appearance or to strengthen customer relations and the fair team gets the most out of the actual fair situation, profitable measures are necessary

Our Solution

Plan your fair success!

According to your needs we can provide you with...

- Customer appointments at the fair
- Sales training for your employees for successful customer discussions at the fair
- Evaluation of your fair success based on feedback, image and satisfaction analysis with a geographic analysis and visualization

The fair as an interest generator

Successful fair appearance

A fair is often a unique opportunity to generate new contacts. The maximum potential of your fair appearance should be fully exploited

1 Fair appointments

Fairs are the ideal start to an acquisition machine. Customer appointments are one of the most important factors in getting into a conversation. This process of generating new contacts must be controlled

2 Staff training

To ensure that customer meetings are conducted efficiently and visitors are been supervised professionally, it requires a well-trained staff team

3 Measure fair success

Fairs do cost money, whether they are successful must be measured by intelligent market research.

The Strategy for a successful fair appearance

Fair appointments

- Growth through new partners is tedious but necessary – fairs are the ideal start to an acquisition machine and often a unique opportunity to generate new contacts.
- The process of generating new contacts must be meaningfully controlled: this includes an updated and personalized database of valuable contacts and information about company size, partners and an invitation to talk at the fair.

Fair staff training

- In order for the acquisition machine to have low wastage, a trained fair team is necessary
- Employee trainings are necessary, because a fair is a different situation, where employees take on a different role and thus behave differently
- With a training focused on the fair appearance and fair discussions, every fair will be a success

Measuring fair success

- Success can be measured: with the evaluation of customer appointments, evaluation of the sales engine, image analysis and customer satisfaction measurement
- Image analysis ex-post provide valuable information on the number of visitors at the fair, which brands have attracted attention and the motives of the visitors
- With a customer satisfaction measurement the own fair appearance is measured and compared to the competition
- The results are visualized in the form of geomaps and analyzed geographically

Investment Costs for your fair appointments

1. Project overview

You receive a weekly feedback of the contacts and appointments.
Without any further costs you are able to end a project, in case you are not satisfied with the outcome

Fair Training for the optimal fair appearance of your team

Successful appearance at the exhibition stand

Increase fair success with a motivated and success-oriented team

Only a trained staff team guarantees a successful fair

The fair requires teamwork: unlike usual, one works at the fair not as a soloist, but as an orchestra. Fixed responsibilities are therefore a hindrance. Every single stand employee represents the entire company and the brand.

A positive impression, a friendly customer approach, a professional conversation and a precise follow-up of the contacts not only leads to satisfied (new) customers but also brings more sales for the company.

With a training focused on the appearance and discussions at the fair, every fair attendance will be a success.

	Goal	Developing a conversation guideline with a definition of the goal at the fair: What do you want to present and what result you want to achieve
	Curiosity	Ability to evoke interest during a conversation and informing less
	Information	Ability to work with brochures and information material
	Attitude	Basics of body language in sales
	Support	Basics in the documentation of conversations and follow – up on meetings
	Impression	The external impression – avoiding mistakes and applying skills
	Approach	Basics of customer approach – avoid mistakes and act skillfully
	Communication	Learning the basics of professional communication and learning conversational skills
	Customer	Assess different types of people and sell and present according to their motives

The ultimate training to help staff succeed
at fairs

Real conversational situations are theoretically explained with examples, trained through intensive role-playing and optimized by professional feedback.

Investment plan for employee training – fair appearance

A fair appearance that pays off

Measuring fair successes

Systematic evaluation and optimization of the fair appearance

The fair appearance should not only be well organized, but also be followed up accordingly

With the evaluation of the customer meetings you not only get an overview of the quantity of your meetings, but also how interested your conversation partners are in your company or product

Image analyzes ex-post provide valuable information about the number of visitors attending the fair, which brands have been noticed and the motives of the visitors attending the fair

With a customer satisfaction measurement the own fair appearance is measured and compared to the competition

Customer satisfaction survey

Overall satisfaction: Satisfaction – Top Box (= % “very satisfied”), mean and comparison to XY
